DAVIS WILL RESIGN CABINET POSITION TO RUN FOR SENATE

Announcement Will Come Within 48 Hours
Is Report

WASHINGTON, March 14.—James J. Davis, who has gratified his ambition to serve as secretary of labor in the cabinets of three presidents, will formally announce his candidacy for the senate from Pennsylvania within the next forty-eight hours.

With the backing of the powerful and very wet Vare machine in Philadelphia, Davis enters the list against Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who is supported by the powerful Mellon interests. Thus it remains only for ex-Gov. Gifford Pinchot to throw in his hat in order to set the stage for another keystone primary of the Donnybrook Fair variety. Pinchot is not expected to delay very long.

Secretary Davis does not plan to retire from the cabinet while he conducts his primary campaign, which will run until May 20, the day on which Pennsylvania goes to the polls.

To intimations from some administration leaders that it might be well for him to retire because of possible political embarrassment to Mr. Hoover, Secretary Davis has retorted that he has a notable example to guide him in hanging on as a cabinet member. He pointed out that President Hoover conducted his primary campaign for the presidency while exiled in his berth as secretary of commerce not resigning until after the nomination at Kansas City.

A curious situation is about to arise in connection with the Davis candidacy, and its relation to the Hoover administration.

Four years ago, William S. Vare himself mopped up two dry opponents in the memorable primary of 1926 on a platform that was wringing wet. Vare used to hold aloft, during his speeches, an old fashioned nickel beer glass and pledge himself to labor for its return.

Secretary Davis himself, if not as wringing wet as Vare, is at least distinctly moist. His campaign will be conducted accordingly—thus affording the country the spectacle of a Hoover cabinet officer campaigning on an anti-prohibition

RACKETEER SLAIN; ARREST SUSPECTS

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—The bullet-riddled body of "Petey the Gink," said to be a small-time racketeer, was dumped on the steps of St. Mary's Hospital early today by two men who fled in an automobile.

The wounded man succumbed without revealing the names of his assailants.

The dead man's real name was John Scanlon, according to police.

THIRTEENTH DIES IN TRAFFIC TOLL

CINCINNATI, O., March 14.—Cincinnati's 1930 traffic toll had mounted to thirteen today with the death of Samuel Morris, 32, local jeweler, who was killed last night as he was leaving the birthday anniversary party of a friend.

Witnesses to the tragedy said that Morris was crossing the street where his automobile was parked, when he was struck by an automobile which was driven by Frank Little.

Several cars were stopped and allowed to proceed. The last was a Chevrolet coach bearing Ohio license plates. Two men, a woman and a small boy were in the car. While Paul was examining the operator's license of the driver, Moore walked to the rear of the car to check up on the license plates.

"Just then Corporal Paul backed into me," Moore testified. "I turned and saw the operator of the car with a gun pulled on Paul, with the lady directly behind him. She had a gun in her hand."

"Who was the man you saw when you turned?" Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti interrupted.

"It was Glenn Dague," answered Moore. He identified Dague in the courtroom.

"And who was the woman?" "It was Irene Schroeder. She is sitting directly in front of me here."

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—Death today had released George Bloom, 66, from the grim monotony of life. Bloom, forgotten by friends, forsaken by relatives and penniless, had been a patient of the Columbus State Hospital here for the last twenty-six years and for more than ten years he had not had a visitor. Bloom died last night as the result of heart disease.

Anthony S. Dzouclis, above, of Lorain, Ohio, has been held on a first degree murder charge, following the fatal shooting of his son-in-law, William Dineen, as the latter returned from a honeymoon with his daughter. Police say Dzouclis objected to the match.

OFFICER WOUNDED IN BRADY SHOOTING IDENTIFIES COUPLE

Parade Of Witnesses
Point Fingers At Trigger Woman

COURTROOM, New Castle, Pa., March 14.—Enraged in a torrent of damning testimony, uttered by witness after witness who point accusing fingers and declare "there she is—that's her," Irene Schroeder today began the fifth day of her legal fight to escape the death chair for the killing of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol.

The case of the commonwealth is sweeping to a rapid conclusion. Eye witnesses have identified Irene as the woman bandit who aided in the chain store holdup at Butler, Pa., as the woman occupant of a bandit car intercepted by Paul following the robbery, and who backed Paul at gunpoint to the roadside and pressed the trigger, twice, at pointblank range when Paul ordered her to "drop that gun."

The climax of the state's case was reached at the second night session here last night when private Ernest Moore, himself wounded in the gun duel on the Butler-New Castle highway, took the witness stand. Moore, a handsome, robust youth, tersely described how he and Paul had sped southeast on the highway to halt all cars in an effort to apprehend the perpetrators of the Butler holdup.

Moore and Paul leaped out of their motorcycle and sidecar at the home of Mrs. Eva Higgins on the highway, concealed the motorcycle and waited in the Baldwin driveway for approaching cars.

Several cars were stopped and allowed to proceed. The last was a Chevrolet coach bearing Ohio license plates. Two men, a woman and a small boy were in the car. While Paul was examining the operator's license of the driver, Moore walked to the rear of the car to check up on the license plates.

"Just then Corporal Paul backed into me," Moore testified. "I turned and saw the operator of the car with a gun pulled on Paul, with the lady directly behind him. She had a gun in her hand."

M a n Wounded When Captured Leaps From Window

CLEVELAND, March 14.—An automobile, answering to the description of the one used to manipulate the escape of Fred Hentrie, 34, Detroit, Lake Erie rum runner, from a Lorain hospital late last night, was discovered in a hotel garage here today by police working in co-operation with coastguardsmen.

The automobile is the property of a well-known Cleveland bootlegger, police declared. Garage attendants told authorities working on the case that two men drove the car into the garage early today and left immediately in another machine. The second machine is listed under a fictitious name, police said.

CLEVELAND, March 14.—Cleveland detectives and members of the coast guard station here joined forces today in a widespread hunt for Fred Hentrie, 42, alleged rum runner, who escaped from St. Joseph's Hospital in Lorain late last night where he had lain with two bullet wounds in his back since his capture by coast guards last March 6.

Hentrie gained his freedom by leaping through a window of the hospital. An automobile, with the motor running, was standing in front of the hospital when the man jumped, it was learned. Authorities believe Hentrie fled toward Cleveland.

The prisoner's escape was perfectly timed and executed. Because of his serious injuries, close watch had not been kept over the prisoner. William Peatro, Lorain coast guard, who was assigned to watch the man, had stepped out for a bite of late lunch when Hentrie leaped for freedom.

Hentrie was captured last week by coast guardsmen who seized a rum tug in Lake Erie. When the tug attempted to flee from the federal boat, the guardsmen opened gun fire. During the battle, Hentrie was wounded. Frank Smith, Hentrie's companion on the rumcraft, escaped injury. He was arrested and brought to the county jail here where he is being held under $7,500 bond.

The tug boat captured by the guardsmen contained 6,000 quarts of liquor and a large amount of beer, according to the coast guards.

ADOPTION OF CODE IS EXPECTED SOON

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 14.—Steps which may ultimately lead, during the present session of the legislature, to the adoption of a new code of laws for West Virginia will probably be taken by the solons of the two houses of the law-making body today.

After a bitter wrangle, a plan for the appointment of a central committee of thirty, which would include fifteen members from the house and a like number from the senate, was tentatively agreed upon, and formal adoption of that plan is expected today.

The central committee, the plan specified, would hold public hearings and read the new code, a paragraph at a time, so that all differences could be ironed out.

Ronald Moist and Lawrence Lynch, both of Clarksburg, the attorneys who drafted the code, may be hired by the legislative body as advisors, according to the plan.

MISTOOK MEDAL FOR BADGE SAYS KILLER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 14.—A Canadian war medal, won for bravery on the fields of France, and which Frank Daily, proprietor of an alleged speakeasy here, mistook for a detective's badge, was blamed today for the death of George T. Dyke, 29.

Daily, who was arrested following the discovery of Dyke's murder, body near the alleged liquor resort, had admitted slaying the man, according to police. Manslaughter charges have been placed against him.

Daily, police said, claimed he mistook Dyke's Canadian war medal for an officers' badge and during the course of an ensuing quarrel, Dyke was thrown down the back stairs of the Daily establishment.

A coroner's investigation revealed that Dyke's skull had been fractured in three places.

BATTLE OF PROXIES LAUNCHED IN PROPOSED STEEL MERGER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 14.—The "battle of proxies" in what is expected to be an epochal war for and against the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., with Bethlehem steel corporation began in earnest today as opposing sides rallied for the majority support of the 4,500 stockholders in the Youngstown concern.

While proxy committees from both sides prepared letters to stockholders requesting their support, Youngstown's business leaders took up arms against the proposed merger through the formation of a "citizen's committee" designed to fight the consolidation to the last ditch.

The open war declared against the merger is significant in that it represents vigorous criticism of James A. Campbell, veteran steel chief and chairman of the Sheet and Tube concern. Heretofore, Campbell has staunchly opposed any plan whereby the Youngstown company would lose independence.

His action, now, in turning about and facing his shareholders, has aroused a considerable portion of the citizenry here to indignation.

Youngstown stockholders in the Sheet and Tube concern are opposed to the merger principally on account of civic pride. They fear that the leadership and identity of this city in the steel world will suffer an immeasurable loss through consolidation with the Bethlehem Corporation.

Defending his action, Campbell has issued a statement to Youngstown shareholders of Sheet and Tube. He stated that the merger will be a benefit to the city rather than a detriment and instead of being an "outright sale" the company will be merely allying itself with a stronger organization.

Youngstown opponents of the proposed merger are strengthened by the interests of Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, who are attempting to block the consummation of the plan.

DIVORCED SWIMMER WILL WED ANOTHER

CHICAGO, March 14.—Equipped with a divorce from Wirth McAllister, New York broker, Martha Norellus, amateur and professional world's champion swimmer, today was on her way to White Sulphur Springs, Va., where she is to be married tomorrow to Joe Wright, Jr., Canadian oarsman.

Miss Norellus was granted a secret divorce here Saturday, it was revealed. She charged that McAllister had deserted her in December of 1927, six months after their marriage. Through her attorney she swears waived claim to alimony, stating she was able to support herself as a "salesgirl."

IMMIGRATION LAW VIOLATORS HELD

LORAIN, O., March 14.—Three men were being held in the Lorain city jail here today pending removal to Cleveland on charges of violating the immigration laws.

The three men were arrested here yesterday by Freeman E. Bangs, inspector of United States Immigration Service.

Since the drive started on aliens in Lorain County, two months ago, twenty men have been taken into custody by federal officers, it was learned.

PARITY AGREEMENT THROWN OVERBOARD AT LONDON MEETING

Ration Will Remain But Level Raised Is Announced

LONDON, March 14.—Thrown overboard in a frantic attempt to save the five-power naval disarmament conference from failure, the 1,200,000-ton parity agreement between the United States and Great Britain went into the discard today.

While the principle of parity between the two English-speaking naval powers will be maintained, the level will be considerably higher than that agreed upon tentatively some weeks ago.

According to present indications, the figure will be nearer 1,300,000 tons, representing an increase over the tentative program of approximately 100,000 tons of warships.

The American delegation to the parity, although reluctant, is prepared to accept this augmented figure and let the earlier program of 1,200,000 tons go by the board. This decision has been necessitated by the final realization by both French and American delegates that it is impossible to persuade France to reduce her tonnage demands appreciably.

In this connection, the British admiralty has executed a complete about face. Previously, this board estimated Britain would require a 400,000-ton increase in the Anglo-American parity figures if the French retained their total demands. Now it appears that 100,000 tons will prove sufficient.

After a close inspection of the French figures, an admiralty expert admitted today that the effective French fleet of 1936 and thereafter would total only 660,000 tons. Therefore, the British fleet they need an increase of 35,000 tons in cruisers and 50,000 tons in destroyers over the total agreed upon by President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald.

This means, of course, that the United States can automatically claim the right to a similar increase in figures in order to preserve parity, but it was pointed out in American circles that it really means very little actual increase, since old destroyers can be retained in order to maintain the necessary destroyer strength of 200,000 tons.

Building of 35,000 additional tons of cruisers is considered to be worth the price of a five-power agreement.

The additional United States cruiser tonnage probably will be allotted to the light cruiser category, and thus will not appreciably alter the terms of the Japanese-American negotiations. So far as the latter are concerned, the Americans continue to insist agreement by refusal to clinch any bargain until they see the outcome of the Franco-British negotiations.

The only thing on the conference schedule today other than private meetings between the various delegates, is a meeting this afternoon of the special sub-committee just appointed to work out an agreement for methods of scrapping obsolete vessels other than battleships and aircraft carriers.

SISTER OF FORMER PRESIDENT TAFT'S WIDOW IS CALLED

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Mrs. Charles Anderson of Cincinnati, O., sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the former president and former chief justice, died suddenly in Paris, France, on the eve of her departure for the United States, according to word received at the Taft home here. A heart attack was given as the cause of death.

Mrs. Anderson and a daughter, Miss Catherine Anderson, had been in England where they had visited another daughter, Mrs. George Lester. They left England last Wednesday for Paris.

Mrs. Anderson is survived by five other sisters besides Mrs. Taft. Miss Marion Herron now at the Taft home here, Mrs. Henry Lippitt, of Providence, R. I., wife of former Senator Lippitt of that state; Mrs. Gustavus Parsons, of Columbus, O., and Mrs. Louis T. Moore, of Cincinnati. She was fifty-five years old and had been a widow a number of years.

WILLIAM FOX FACING FURTHER TROUBLE IN FINANCIAL WAR

NEW YORK, March 14.—William Fox today faced another tangle in the web of legal moves centering around the financial affairs of the Fox Theaters Company and Fox Film Corporation, as the result of filing of a suit in state supreme court to halt by injunction an action brought by Fox in federal court. The action was filed by John E. Otterson and H. L. Stuart.

Fox's suit was scheduled to be heard in federal court this morning on an order issued by Judge Frank J. Coleman requiring Otterson and Stuart to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain them from voting stock of Fox in the two companies as provided in a trustee agreement.

Instead of waiting until today to answer the federal court suit, Stuart and Otterson obtained from Justice Aaron J. Levy an injunction to restrain Fox from proceeding with his suit. The order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent is returnable Monday.

So, authorities have a "Riddle" in jail today.

Railroad Will Link
West And East
Rail Lines

NEW YORK, March 14.—Acquisition by the Van Sweringen brothers of the control of Missouri Pacific railroad, and with it the connecting link between the gigantic transportation systems of the east and west, has been virtually consummated, according to well-informed railroad quarters in the financial district.

Linking up of the Missouri Pacific lines with the Greater Nickel Plate in the east and the Rio Grande Western and Western Pacific in the west, which is now made possible by the passing of control to the Van Sweringens, will form the first transcontinental transportation system on the American continent. The dream of all railroad builders.

Official acknowledgement of Missouri Pacific stock in the open market was made earlier in the week with the public offering of $25,000,000 collateral trust convertible bonds of the Allegheny Corporation, the Van Sweringen holding company. Collateral for these bonds consisted of 100,000 shares of the common stock and 60,000 shares of preferred stock of Missouri Pacific Company, in addition to 7,000,000 convertible gold bonds of the same road. It is understood that these securities constituted a part of the holdings of the Van Sweringens in the western road.

SAYS DRY OFFICERS BROKE LAW IN CASE

PIQUA, O., March 14.—"I can not condone the fanatical zeal of state dry officers who enforce the law by twisting legal procedure," Municipal Judge J. Harrison was on record today as having made that statement. His attack on the dry officers resulted from the trial of Walter Evans, who was charged with possession of home-brew. Smith dismissed the prisoner.

Basing his decision on a defective search warrant, Judge Smith said he believed that the prohibition law is no more sacred than statutes covering violations of search principles to protect innocent homes.

ADAGE IS WRONG!

CINCINNATI, O., March 14.—An exception to that adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," today can be found in the death of Samuel Soldano, local grocer.

When Soldano was fired at by a would-be robber Sunday, he bought a pistol to be armed against such attacks in the future.

The revolver dropped from his pocket and was accidentally discharged. He was mortally wounded.

RETURN SUSPECTS

DAYTON, O., March 14.—Horace Thornton, 34, and Robert Glass, 32, who are alleged to have held up a grocery store here and robbed two policemen of their revolvers, were returned from St. Louis to Dayton early today.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

DAYTON, O., March 14.—Mrs. Margaret Gibson, 64, is near death today as the result of injuries which she sustained last night when she was struck by an automobile on the Cincinnati Road, near here. Mrs. Gibson was hit when she alighted from her husband's car to recover a coat which had fallen from a machine.

"SECRET SIX" LAUNCHING WAR UPON CHICAGO'S UNDERWORLD

By PIERRE JOHN HUSS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CHICAGO, March 14.—With 250 murders charged to Chicago's hoodlum world since it chucked up its first killing in September, of 1923, and more in prospect, citizens, the underworld, and the world at large are awaiting with keen interest the effects of a much heralded million-dollar onslaught on crime here by business and industrial leaders headed by the "secret six," an executive committee appointed by the Chicago Association of Commerce to organize and carry out its campaign against crime.

The purpose of the drive is three-fold:
First, to oust gangsters, extortioners, blackmailers and politicians "in cahoots" with them from their allied strongholds.
Second, to make crime unprofitable either to the criminals or to those who might be "protecting" them from the "inside."

Third, to counteract the popular impression that Chicago is the world's "toughest" town.

The crime war committee's plan, fundamentally, is not designed along the lines of stampeding all suspicious looking characters out of the city. The steam rolling method has been left to the police, who have resorted to it widely in the last few weeks with the expected results—a "showup" parade of 5,000 suspicious persons and the clogging of courts with cases of minor police characters. The "secret six," however, intends to divide the city into its "badland" sections, place an investigating committee in charge of each district, and secure information not only on criminals in that section, but also of the status and character of policemen, politicians, judges, lawyers and "moneyed" powers.

On the basis of this data, it hopes to sweep into the hands of the law not only the current criminals and gangsters, but also the "big shots."

Nor will the men entrusted with this task be faced with the necessity of invading virgin territory. In their portfolios will repose a regular "Who's Who" in gangland, with the names, aliases, residences, records, probable connections and territorial control of the outstanding gangland lords neatly classified.

It will map the northside, where George "Bugs" Moran, Ted Newberry and the Aielloes are ruthless dictators; also the northwest side, with its Al Wingers, Marty Guilfoyles, Matt Kalbs and other gang rulers; the south side, lorded over by the Danny Stantons, Joe Saltises, Frank McErlanes, Quinland, McGovern, O'Donnelle and Sheidons; the west side, with its "Red" Boltions, "Klondike" O'Donnells, Druggans and Lakes, its "Butch" Cooks and McFaddens and McGurns.

AT LAST!
ONE gasolene that combines ALL
11 POINTS OF SUPERIORITY
KOOLMOTOR
THE ORIGINAL HIGH TEST, ANTI-KNOCK GREEN GAS

You don't have to tolerate the spotty performance of show-off gasolenes. You don't have to buy anti-knock performance at the sacrifice of quick starting. You don't have to put up with sluggish power to take a hill in high, without knocking.

We say "you don't have to" because—Koolmotor, the thoroughbred of gasolenes, gives you 11-point superiority in one outstanding motor fuel.

Every benefit that a good gasolene should have is found in Koolmotor. No one phase of performance is sacrificed to obtain a showy effect in another. Koolmotor is good throughout—it has passed 11 of the most rigid laboratory tests ever given any gasolene—tests for starting, acceleration, anti-knock, power, vapor pressure, odor, corrosion, sulphur, gum content, distillation, and mileage.

Test by test, mile by mile, day by day, Koolmotor is absolutely the finest gasolene you can use in your car. It is one gasolene that really justifies its premium price!

OWL CLUB ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY EVENING

St. Patrick's Day emblems and decorations, used about the rooms and carried out in the menu, added interest to the regular meeting of the Owl Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder, S. Detroit St., Wednesday evening.

Cards furnished entertainment throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burke were guests of the club, and Mrs. Elmer Huston and Mr. Burke were high score winners. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Burke were the guests present.

CENTRAL HIGH P.T. A. TO HAVE REGULAR MEETING

Mr. Clyde Shumaker, teacher of English and public speaking at Central High School will give an address on the subject of "The Trend of Modern Speech" at the regular meeting of Central High School P.T. A. Monday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Arthur V. Perrill and Mrs. Lester Oglesbee will sing two numbers followed by a sketch by several of the pupils.

All parents are urged to attend the meeting as the program planned is of interest.

ENTERTAIN MEMBERS OF CLARK'S RUN CLUB

Mrs. Ed Bradford and Mrs. O. E. Bradford were delightful hostesses Wednesday evening when they entertained members of Clark's Run Club and their husbands at the former's home.

There were forty guests present. Preceding the social hour of the evening a delicious two course supper was served.

CELEBRATES NINETY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Mrs. J. P. Oglesbee, W. Third St., celebrated her ninety-first birthday quietly at her home, Thursday, when relatives and friends called throughout the day.

Mrs. Oglesbee was presented many flowers, cards and lovely gifts. Light refreshments were served throughout the day and evening as the guests called.

The condition of Mrs. Jennie Buckles, Jamestown, who has been seriously ill at her home for some time, is improved.

Mrs. J. O. McCormick, E. Market St., who has been seriously ill at her home for some time, shows a little improvement.

Mr. Frank Thomas, south of Xenia, who has been seriously ill at his home, is now improved and able to be up.

The regular monthly social meeting of members of Eleazar Church, will be held at the church, south of Xenia, Friday evening. The public is cordially invited to attend. Mrs. L. H. Hartsook and Mrs. T. H. Middleton are in charge of the meeting.

Regular meeting of the Childrens Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church. All children are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jordan, this city, spent several days this week in Chicago, with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bath and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins, E. Xenia St., Jamestown, are the parents of a daughter, born Tuesday. The baby has been named Joyce Rosetta.

Regular meeting of the Berean Class of Trinity M. E. Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Dawson Smith, N. Detroit St., Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

All members of the American Legion Auxiliary are asked to attend the regular monthly meeting at Post Hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A program of interest is being planned. An address will be given by Mrs. Faye Watkins Smith, who recently returned from Kelso, Wash., and all members are urged to be present.

Regular meeting of Caesarcreek Grange will be held at Caesarcreek High School, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. A program of interest is being planned. An address will be given by Mrs. Faye Watkins Smith, who recently returned from Kelso, Wash., and all members are urged to be present.

The next regular meeting of the Spring Hill Parent-Teacher Association, postponed from last Monday in order to have as a part of the program a health picture show made possible through the efforts of Mrs. Guy-Harold Smith, Greene County tuberculosis nurse, will be held at the Spring Hill schoolhouse, March 17. Special music will also be furnished and a report of the nominating committee will be given at the business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Hale and Prof. and Mrs. G. J. Graham, this city, returned to Xenia Thursday night from a two-week motor trip to Florida, stopping on both the West and East coasts. While in Palm Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Hale visited the former's nephew and niece, Mr. E. M. Brelsford and Mrs. Minnie B. Hood, former Xenians, who have maintained winter residences there for many years.

The McGervey Bible Class of Trinity M. E. Church will enjoy a covered dish supper at the church next Monday evening. Members and their families are invited to attend the affair and bring buns in place of sandwiches.

Twelve members of the Eleazar Ladies Aid Society enjoyed a delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Mason, Wilmington Pike, Thursday, after which a short business session was held which was followed by a social hour. A two course luncheon, with St. Patrick Day appointments, was served by the hostess.

Regular meeting of the Junior Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church will be held at the church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Miss Mary Wilkus will be the speaker. All are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Middleton, Cedarville, are announcing the birth of a daughter, Wednesday. The baby has been named Dorothy Jean.

Mrs. Jacob Marshall, N. Detroit St., who underwent an operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, last Monday, is improving nicely.

Mr. Harry Wright, Cedarville, who underwent an operation at Espey Hospital several weeks ago was removed to his home, Friday morning.

Mrs. David Lucas, Lumberton, suffered painful burns about the face last Tuesday, when a lid blew off a kettle letting the steam out suddenly, scalding her about the face. Her daughters, Mrs. Wilbur Davis and Mrs. Carl Sparrow were with their mother at the time of the accident.

"Mother Mine" a three act play which was given by members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Church of Christ at Bowersville last Tuesday evening, will be repeated at Venable Theater at Jamestown, Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Miss Mildred Hyman, N. King St., left Friday morning for Lafayette, Ind., where she will remain with friends for the week end. She will attend the Spring House Party sponsored by members of Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity at Purdue University.

Mr. Edward Huff, Upper Bellbrook Pike, returned to his home Thursday evening after spending the last five weeks as a patient in Dr. Pierce's Hospital at Buffalo, N. Y., where he underwent an operation and medical attention.

The regular meeting of the Junior Woman's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Fisher, W. Second St., Tuesday afternoon, instead of the home of Mrs. M. L. Wolf. Mrs. John Barlow will have charge of the paper on "The Irish National Drama." "The Drama" is the subject for the day.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

R. H. KINGSBURY IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Robert H. Kingsbury, 10 Rogers St., clothing merchant, was brought to McClellan Hospital shortly after 1 o'clock Friday afternoon and is in a critical condition suffering from injuries received in an auto collision at the intersection of the Xenia-Fairfield and Dayton - Yellow Springs roads at 12:45 p. m.

Complete details of the accident were not available but according to Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs, who was summoned to the scene of the accident, an auto driven by Richard Jones, Osborn, collided with car operated by Kingsbury.

Kingsbury was rendered unconscious in the accident and was rushed to the Xenia Hospital by Fred Anderson, Xenia insurance man. A preliminary examination disclosed he sustained a crushed chest, scalp wounds and a possible skull fracture. His condition was pronounced as extremely grave.

Jones, driver of the second car, suffered a three-inch cut on the forehead, cuts on one hand and painful bruises.

The accident occurred at a point about nine miles from Xenia near the residence of Walter E. Spahr. L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, was notified and was making an investigation of the collision early Friday afternoon.

MARKER TO PIRELLI DEDICATED; MADE BY XENIA COMPANY

A marker erected in memory of Lieut. Giovanni Pirelli, Italian war ace, who was killed at Fairfield Air Depot February 4, 1919, was dedicated with simple but impressive ceremonies at the air field Wednesday. The marker, of Victoria White granite, was made and lettered by The George Dodds and Sons Granite Co., Xenia.

Officers from both Wright Field and the Fairfield Air Depot, in addition to Lieut. Col. F. M. Andrews, Washington, representing the office of the chief of the air corps; Commander Silvio Scaroni, air attache of the Royal Italian embassy at Washington, and Maj. Paolo Sbernadori, also of the Italian embassy, were present for the dedicatory ceremonies.

The two representatives of the Italian embassy and Lieut. Col. Andrews flew to Dayton from Washington especially for the exercises and returned to the capitol by air immediately after the program was concluded.

Lieut. Pirelli, who was in active service for three years on the Italian and Austrian fronts during the late war, was credited with having downed four enemy planes in combat and was awarded four medals and citations for bravery in action.

Early in 1919 Lieut. Pirelli, together with other members of the Italian commission, which toured the United States, came to the Fairfield depot, then known as Wilbur Wright Field, on an inspection tour. His plane, of Italian design, nose dived to the earth from an altitude of 200 feet, killing the pilot instantly.

WILL SHOW HEALTH FILMS IN SCHOOLS

D. A. Newman of the state department of health at Columbus, will come to Xenia Monday to take charge of showing films on the subject of "Health" at Xenia Central High School, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The public is invited to the school to witness the pictures.

All mothers are urged to attend the picture showing at this time and at the close of the program Mrs. Guy-Harold Smith, county tuberculosis health nurse, will answer any question which may be asked.

At 3:30 o'clock the health films will be shown in the auditorium of Spring Hill School and at 8 o'clock at East High School. The films are divided into three parts: first on the "Precious Gift of Life," second, "Consequences" and third, "Health."

JAPANESE PLAYLET WILL BE PRESENTED BY LUTHER LEAGUE

"If I Were You," (Laura Scherer Copenhaver and Katherine Scherer Cronk) is the title of a Japanese playlet that will be presented by the Misses Mae Davis and Marjorie Randall at Luther League meeting Sunday evening. The meeting will be held in the Sunday School rooms of the First Lutheran Church and will begin at 6:15 p. m. Miss Randall will represent the American girl while Miss Davis will portray the Japanese character.

C. F. Mellage, superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday School will be devotional chairman of the meeting and has chosen Alice Gordon, Mary Maxwell, J. F. Molitor, H. K. Snyder and the Rev. Adrian C. Lebold to take the principal parts in commenting upon the topic, which will be "Peter, a Great Evangelist." Other persons attending the meeting will be given opportunity to speak if they desire. Continual interest is being displayed in these Luther League meetings which are open to persons of all ages. During the past quarter the average attendance was twenty-nine per meeting. With a decided increase during the past few Sunday evenings it is predicted that this average will easily attain thirty-five during this second period of the church year.

ENGAGE PROFESSOR AS DINNER SPEAKER

Prof. Edwin S. Burdell, of Ohio State University, Columbus, will be the principal speaker when the combined Social Service League and American Red Cross Chapter hold their annual dinner meeting, Thursday, March 20, at 6 o'clock. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

According to the committee in charge, Mr. Burdell comes to Xenia highly recommended as an inspirational speaker.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and reservations may be obtained by calling phone No. 923, the Red Cross and Social Service League headquarters.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us his Spirit. — I. John, iv, 6, 7.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

The Michigan state department has just released a 300-page memorandum on the Monroe doctrine, which will stand as a monument of erudition to its author, J. Reuben Clark, a former under-secretary of state.

The burden of its argument is that the wording of the Monroe doctrine makes it purely a matter between the United States and Europe; that Latin-American countries, as far as they are affected by it, are beneficiaries of its protective warning; that it simply restrains Europe from extending its system to any portion of this hemisphere; a mere hands-off policy. This strict interpretation of the letter of the doctrine necessitates throwing overboard the so-called Roosevelt corollary that in refusing Europe the right to intervene in this hemisphere to protect its nationals or to punish their murderers or despoilers, we are forced to assume the responsibility for preventing occasions for such intervention arising.

As a matter of pure reason, Clark is right; but in a world infested with much practical and therefore necessarily impure reason, we can't see how the United States is going to escape that responsibility. As a matter of fact, what Clark actually does is to destroy it as a corollary to the Monroe doctrine and then revive it under the label of self-preservation! That keeps the records straight; but does it alter such necessities, actual or potential, as we have had thrust upon us in Nicaragua and Haiti?

The sensibilities of some of our neighbors to the south may be relieved by the discovery that interference in their domestic affairs is no part of the Monroe doctrine; but such interference will have to continue, as long as our interests or those of European countries, whose right to protect their own interests we have denied, are threatened by acts discordant to accepted international practice. A memorandum on this subject lacks completeness, which does not point out to our few remaining turbulent neighbors that they have it within their own power to make intervention, whether as a corollary to the Monroe doctrine or as an act of self-preservation, a thing of the past. All they have to do to accomplish this is to put their houses in order and keep them so. We can't afford to give the impression that we do not dare to be great.

Perhaps it is true that one swallow does not make a summer, but we hear that some swallows make a person feel as though the thermometer had reached 100 in the shade.

The killing of three keepers at Auburn prison in as many years shows that the pets of the sob sisters take their murderous propensities even to jail with them.

We would like to bet that some of the headline writers who are always having people "grilled" wouldn't know a grill if they saw one.

The London conference cannot possibly loiter as long over the naval disarmament plan as the senate has loitered over the tariff bill.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

MANNERS

A New Jersey high school has a "good manners campaign." Posters with slogans are hung about the school. Assembly talks and discussions are features. That's an idea that ought to spread and permeate. Real manners are never merely on the surface. They go deep. Manners add to human happiness.

CONFESSION

There is much bunk under the label of "confession." A suspect, kept awake by the police for 60 hours—a moron to begin with—will finally confess anything to get a little sleep. Some police officers think such methods are smart. They are not. They are stupid.

Then again we read "confessions" in magazine tales. They are anonymous or under assumed names. The word "confession" is designed to draw interest. Of course the "confession" is merely fiction under another name.

Confession is too good a word, too sacred a word to tamper with. When one really confesses he usually does it at the end of calm and unburied thinking.

AS TO DOING IT TODAY

Much unhappiness has been brought about by the driving policy that keeps us in a continual hurry in our effort to put off nothing until tomorrow that can be done today. Just why the rush nobody can quite say. Nobody is going to live very long or do very much at best. We look down on the Spaniard whose slogan seems to be "tomorrow." And on the average the Spanish people—both South Americans and Europeans—are happier than North Americans. Why do everything today? Perhaps what you are worrying about won't have to be done at all if you put it off until tomorrow.

DANGER CLOTHES

Specialists in the department of agriculture come out with advice to mothers to dress their children in vivid red, orange, bright blue or green. These colors will attract the rushing motor driver's eyes and prevent an accident. It might help. It would also be worth while for the motorist to drive like a normal human instead of an insane patient.

REMEMBRANCE

Susan B. Anthony would be 110 years old if she were alive today. How many women stop to remember the great pioneer in the battle for suffrage and other "women's rights"? Not many remember, for we are a forgetful people. Susan B. Anthony gave to women 50 years of courageous fighting. Practically everything she fought for has been won. Just what women have done with their "right" is not exactly the same question. Let us hope Miss Anthony did not live in vain.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

IN saying that there is "no scientific foundation" for something, what does a doctor mean—that it has been investigated and found untrue? (2) What does he mean when he pronounces a man past his "active age"? (1) He may mean that investigation has proved it untrue; or perhaps only that it ought not to be believed without more investigation. (2) He probably means that the man is past the age for very vigorous exertion.

CRIMINAL LAW

In American courts, is a prisoner supposed to be innocent until proved guilty or guilty until he proves himself innocent?—and is the rule the same in English, French and Spanish courts? Under all forms of criminal jurisprudence based on Anglo-Saxon law (notably American and British with some local exceptions in Scotland and Canada) the burden always is upon the prosecution to prove its charge. That is to say, the prisoner is supposed innocent until duly convicted. Roman law (in which most continental European and Latin American countries base their systems of criminal court procedure) first presumes the prisoner to be innocent until the prosecution has made out a substantial case against him, and then presumes him to be guilty unless he can prove his innocence. Thus the positions shift.

ENGLISH TRADE

Is it true that England controls more world commerce than any two other nations put together? It has been true in the past. Today American world trade somewhat surpasses England's.

STANDARD TIME

(1) Traveling east from St. Louis where does eastern standard time begin? (2) East from Chicago? (3) Going west from Omaha, where does central time change? (4) How is the system regulated? (1) At a line drawn from Toledo to Norton (Va.) Johnson City (Tenn.) Asheville (N. C.) and onward in a southerly direction or about 430 miles east of St. Louis. (2) At Toledo, (3) At a line drawn from Mandan (N. D.) to Pierre (S. D.) McCook (Nebr.) Dodge City (Kan.) etc.; or a trifle more than 200 miles west of Omaha. (4) The standard time zones are fixed, according to their meridians, by act of congress, but the interstate commerce commission establishes the boundaries between them, to suit railroad convenience.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—A hotel man over in the Snooty Midtown Section said the other day:

"You'd be astonished if you knew how many of us regret ever having extended the smoking privilege to women. Some day, soon, when the modern readjustment is completed, it'll be all right. In the meantime our rest rooms and corridors are crowded with idle women who spend no money here in the hotel, mean absolutely nothing to us in a business sense, merely dropping in to kill ten minutes and consume a cigarette."

PIECES OF ART

Antonio Ajello, candlemaker extraordinary, has one of the most interesting workshops in town. He exercises the same loving care in the creation of a candle that the master craftsman summons when evolving some exquisite jewel setting.

To Ajello they're not merely candles that burn out in a few hours, but pieces of art. "They typify love and romance, not dollars and cents," he says. This, despite the fact that some of his clients pay as much as Five Hundred Dollars a dozen for candles created by him to match their personalities, moods, ensembles.

By a secret process, the scent of fresh flowers and trees is embedded in the wax, and perfume the air like incense when the candle burns. There are long tables of stately, cathedral candles; sensuous tapers, exotically perfumed, dignified alabaster stalks; colored candles for the hall and fireplace—gay and perfumed twists, delicately clustered with flowers for the debutante's dance. A candle that he calls "Blossom Time in Sorrento," is the artist's favorite: A lovely wreath of perfumed orange blossoms, with light green leaves, bringing back memories of sunny Italy.

It is Antonio Ajello who made the Caruso memorial candle which will burn for eighteen centuries, every All Souls' Day, in the church of Our Lady of Pompeii, in Pompeii, Italy.

New York is to be made ashen conscious, a prize of 750 bucks being offered for the most artistic model submitted—the idea being that beautiful trash repositories on every corner will act as a magnet to Old Hoi Polloi with his banana skins, apple cores, canned wrappers and passe combs sheets. It's a waste of money. Having been cautioned, since boyhood, against using the fancy towels in the bathroom, we've just

ROW OVER "LAME DUCK" SENATORS WHILE APPOINTEES CALMLY SERVE

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"Lame duck" senators may be just as undesirable as folk of progressive political ideas contend.

A tolerably good case can be made out against them, anyway. After a new lawmaker has been elected in November it certainly seems like a long time for him to wait, while the one he is to supplant hangs onto his seat until the ensuing March—through a whole three-month session of congress. Perhaps it was all right in the old days, when the trip to Washington had to be made by stage coach, but it is perfectly ridiculous now, when it can be made by airplane.

The people are entitled to be represented by the men of their most up-to-date choice, as soon as the latter can get here. And of course the same sort of a case can be made out relative to the members of the lower house of congress, as well as the senators. "Lame ducks" merely is not quite so noticeable among the representatives, because there are so many of them that the cripples are lost in the crowd. In the senate they are conspicuous.

All of which is not a new argument. The only point in repeating it is to wonder why such a row is made about the presence of "lame-duck" senators, whereas no row whatever is raised about the prolonged presence of senators who occupy their seats on the strength of appointments from their governors, without having been elected at all. A "lame-duck" at least can plead that he was elected originally.

Some years ago the voters grew tired of having their senators picked for them by their state legislatures, so they changed the United States constitution, in order to do their own choosing, at the polls, as dog catchers are chosen—or any other candidates.

Surely it is even less democratic to leave such a selection to the whim of some governor than to have a legislature make it; nevertheless, it appears to be considered entirely the correct thing. Filling a vacancy by appointment possibly is necessary—but how long should an emergency last? Emergencies are supposed to be brief. The appointed senators' term average all of a year.

Appointed senators, too, are more numerous than one might imagine, without a count of noses. There are eight of them right now.

Eight make a fairly sizable block in a body of 96 members—enough to cast the deciding ballots on a lot of questions, when the senate is as evenly balanced as at present.

It is extremely seldom that there are as many as eight "lame-ducks" in the senate at once.

Of the eight, Senator John M. Robison of Kentucky was appointed in January, this year, which gives him less than 10 months in office before facing his electorate next November.

Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, however, dates back to last April, and Senator William E. Brock of Tennessee also will get more than a year up to Nov. 4. Senators David Baird, Jr., of New Jersey, Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, Roscoe C. McCulloch of Ohio and Patrick J. Sullivan of Wyoming will miss a year by a little, but not much.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware was named in December, 1928, so that his score will be almost two years.

Meanwhile, at one of the most important sessions of congress in a decade, the octet of statesmen help to make laws for the country on the say-so of one single individual per each of their senate votes.

Oh, it is strictly according to Hoyle—exactly as prescribed by the statutes of their respective states. If it suits Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Wyoming, it is none of the other states' business. For all that, the eight do have their influence on legislation which distinctly is of interest from Alabama to Wisconsin, alphabetically clear down through the list.

NO BETTER THAN HIS BROTHERS

Once they started bowing, it seemed that the Dragon-Flies could not stop. Up and down. Again Peter wanted to giggle. Instead he stepped forward.

"Glad to meet you all," said he. "And let me tell you, on first sight I like you. I have never visited Dragon-Fly land before and I'm certain I'm going to have a good time. Is this your all-year-round home by the side of the pool or a summer resort only? Anyhow it's a beautiful spot. Are all your family present? Or are there more at home like you?"

Dragon-Fly Number One was about to answer, but his bold older brother beat him to it. Balancing himself firmly upon the fern leaf that fellow declared: "More of us at home? I should say so, but I am the mightiest hunter."

Whatever else Dragon-Fly Number Two had been about to say was drowned in a roar of protest. "Mightiest hunter, indeed! Who says so?" squeaked the Dragon-Flies in chorus. "You're not a bit mightier than the rest of us, brother! What do you do that we all do not do? You chase insects for the fun of it. So do we. You eat all the prey you can, and what you can't eat you destroy. So do we, all of us. You're a conceited fellow, that's what you are. Shame on you, brother, for trying to show off before a perfect stranger."

Do you think Dragon-Fly Number Two was ashamed of himself? Not a bit of it. Calmly he went right on boasting.

"I am big and strong and fearless!" declared he, talking right to Peter. "I do hope my brothers haven't made you think ill of the whole family just because they seem to have no manners." (At such bold treason the Dragon-Flies gasped. It seemed to them 'twas Dragon-Fly Number Two who had forgotten how to be polite. Peter thought the same thing but said nothing. Dragon-Fly had the fern leaf and kept right on talking.)

Next: "All Right—Until Jack Frost Comes."

WANTS TOO MUCH

"Look here, waitress, there isn't a particle of turtle in this turtle soup?"

"Well, what of it? We have cabinet pudding, but you wouldn't expect to find Andrew Mellon in it, would you?"

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Cocoa Shells
"DEAR DOCTOR: Are cocoa shells used to make a drink, fattening? How do they compare with chocolate and cocoa?"

READER.
No, an infusion from the cocoa shells, according to my encyclopedia (strange to say, I couldn't find anything on this in my books on dietetics), do contain some of the theobromin, or stimulating properties of the bean, and evidently this is what gives it its flavor also.

Cocoa shells are sometimes used as a substitute for coffee, and this drink is known as miserable. That sounds as though it were something dismal, but in reality it is a pleasant drink and is far preferable for those who are reducing, to the real cocoa and chocolate drinks, in which the finely suspended particles of cocoa rich in oil are also taken.

I think you could count the calories of a drink made of cocoa shells only from what you add to it—milk or cream, and sugar, just as you do with tea and coffee.

Cocoa and chocolate are both made from the cocoa bean, and cocoa is really the same as chocolate, only part of the oil has been removed (so it is not so high in calories). I always used to have difficulty in remembering which was richest, and I found I finally could remember it by thinking that the largest word has the largest amount of fat. Easy!

Cocoa is listed as three level teaspoonsful, approximately three-quarters of an ounce, to the 100 calories, and chocolate, approximately one-half ounce. Remember that when you make up a drink of these you have to add the caloric value of the milk, cream or sugar which you add.

Our article on Balanced Diet contains a list of books on dietetics which give foods in 100 C. portions. See column rules for obtaining this.

MARTHA: Stop worrying about your dreams. Dreams are not prophetic; they do not forecast the future. That idea is a relic of the dark ages. Freud and his followers who attach much importance to dreams, simply take them as clues to things that trouble or interest the mind, both the conscious and the unconscious.

The dream you had worried you, and you thought so much about it that you dreamed it again. That's the only significance it has.

MRS. J. We have an article on Thyroid Disturbances, which may be helpful to you. See column rules for obtaining this.

Grinding the teeth is in itself no indication of worms. If there are worms present, they can be discovered in the stool, or their eggs will be found through a microscopic examination. Your husband should have a physical examination, naturally, to see if his extreme thinness is due to something besides undernourishment. A thin person needs almost twice the amount of food that a fat person of the same height and activities needs, because he loses so much heat through lack of body padding. A thin man, six feet tall, could eat what you would consider an enormous amount, and still not be getting enough for him. I think if you will send for the pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining, you will get some help. See column rules.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

SOME people expect to have their happiness handed to them on a silver platter, without in any way earning or deserving it. They marry because they imagine they are in love. Then when matters don't go smoothly, instead of working to make a success of married life, they lose interest, fight all the time and get infatuated with someone else for the thrill of it.

I suppose if they married the new love, it wouldn't be long before things would fall and they would be trying to find another sensation. They never seem to realize that such happiness as we get out of life comes by trying to do what is right. That only as we put some substantial effort into life, do we get anything worth while out.

Only by doing the fair thing by one's mate can one expect to get fair treatment. And if fair treatment is not forthcoming when we do our best, still there is some satisfaction in knowing that we have done our "dullest" to make a go of things.

DEAR BROKEN HEARTED WIFE: Your letter made me want to use "language unbecoming a lady," and not on account of what you did, either, but at your husband. How about HIS past? Did you swap experiences or were you the only one who had to "confess"? Did you hear your little daughter tell that yarn or did your husband tell you she told him? Because unless you heard her with your own ears I don't believe she ever told it.

What happened to you when you were a little child is none of your husband's business. You have been a good true wife to him, and if he acts like a sulky child I'd let him get over it and try hard not to grieve. He had no business prying into your past.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I want to say a few words in reply to A. H. R.'s letter. Please, oh please, little girl, don't marry your lover if you know you will have to live with his mother and father."

"No matter how much you love each other you'd never be happy in someone else's home. I have lived with my mother and father-in-law for over eight years and know what it means. The saying, 'there is no house big enough for two families,' is a true one."

"Please, dear, take my advice and don't marry until he can furnish you a home. If I knew your name and address I'd write you a personal letter."

MRS. R.
Generally speaking, the situation you describe is a very unhappy one, but there HAVE been cases where people have been very happy and congenial.

WONDERING AND WAITING: Times are hard just now. Possibly that is why your boy friend postpones the marriage. Have a little patience before you "try to find someone else." That is, if you care as much for him as you should if you intend to marry him.

A WOULD-BE HELPING HAND: Thank you very much for the article you sent me. It is eminently wise and helpful.

THE GIRL WHO WANTS TO KNOW: The girl could have him arrested and he could be compelled to at least support the baby.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Of course you aren't a bride yet you are the bride-to-be—and, if you are wise as I know you are, some morning bright and early you will either go down to your favorite department store or just around the corner to that very up-to-date druggist, and do a little beauty shopping. And, first of all, you're going to be sane and sensible. You aren't going to pick a pink capped bottle of skin lotion just because your new mules are bluish colored, nor a heavy, chalky powder because it has a rather intriguing fragrance.

The perfume in a box of powder is an afterthought, just as the shape of a jar or bottle is. Your senses may be flattered, but after all, in this matter of beauty preparations, it's your skin that should be pleased, isn't it—and something more than pleased, helped, benefited.

So first, to be very businesslike, you're going to "chart" your way to beauty. Ask yourself first, is your skin dry, delicate and sensitive? Then you are the dry skin type; write that down. Perhaps it's oily; then you are of the oily skin type. Or again, your skin tone and texture may be firm, clear and even, in which case you have the "normal skin."

Whatever your type, remember you must suit it, and suit it correctly. What will you want? A cleansing cream first, and if I were you, I should buy the second size. You may be going away and for motoring, a train or a boat trip, I know of nothing so comforting as a convenient jar of cleansing cream at hand to be used often and generously. A skin clearing cream I should regard as desirable, yet optional. Most young skins need it to keep their beautiful or to make them so. A mild tonic, astringent, lotion, you will certainly want, and since it is most inexpensive and a delightful quick cleanser I think I should buy the second size here too.

A mask preparation is a luxury, and an economical one that I should most certainly not be without. The new bride is constantly being called upon socially. An unexpected guest is coming, a proud husband is bringing a college friend home to dinner. On such occasions a quick freshening up preparation that brings instant glow and loveliness to the skin is worth its weight in gold, and there is something comforting in knowing that a home mask treatment costs something under 20 cents!

Use it about a half hour to an hour before your guests arrive. You need a foundation cream, and I think I should buy two little bottles and suit one of them to my wedding trip, and keep the other for evening functions. For motoring, a liquid balm; for swimming, golf or outdoor sports, a sun and windproof cream; and for evening, a creamy white liquid foundation.

Rouge-en-creme—because it is the most lasting type of rouge. Powder, of course—to suit the color and condition of the skin—and a tiny compact of eye shadow to make the eyes seem dark and beautiful. It would cost very little—this beauty budget—and the money would be invested—not just spent!

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

Unless Wilmington College decides to put a baseball team on the diamond this spring, there is a possibility the C. A. W. League, composed of Cedarville, Antioch, Wilberforce and Wilmington Colleges, may collapse.

The league was organized last year to function only in baseball but according to Marvin Borst, athletic director at Cedarville, who is president of the league, nothing has been heard from Wilmington as to its intentions of playing baseball this spring.

Coach Borst announced a meeting of league representatives will probably be held sometime next week. Merrill Dawson, Antioch, is secretary of the circuit.

Last spring Antioch, if memory serves correctly, won the league diamond title, the teams playing each other three times.

With twenty candidates available, including ten letter men, Cedarville College hopes to put a strong nine in the field this year. The Yellow-Jackets will usher in their diamond season April 8, playing Antioch at Yellow Springs.

The Borstmen will probably play the University of Dayton, Wilberforce and possibly Miami University at Oxford, in addition to one or two games of a practice nature with Springfield's entry in the Central League.

Coach Borst is well fixed for pitchers. His best bet on the mound will be Preston Garlough, a right-hander, and Albert Turner, a southpaw, while Brenton Turner, another pitcher and Jack Osborne, hailing from Vermont, a right-hander, will be in reserve.

The infield material is good. "Dutch" Rife, product of good Hope, although only a freshman, is expected to play second base providing he does not sign a contract to join the Danville, Ill. team, a farm of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Two promising candidates, Borst and Spencer, will battle it out for the first base berth while Kennison may be used at shortstop and Alfred Townsley at third base.

Coach Borst believes his outfield combination of Walter Boyer, Paul Lauder and Paul Armstrong for the last four years. He is a graduate of Wittenberg College, where he was an outstanding football star and his home is in Urbana. He has turned out some strong basketball, football and baseball teams while at the helm of athletics at Cedarville.

Cedarville's 1929-30 basketball schedule is still in the incomplete stage, but will probably include games with the University of Cincinnati, St. Xavier College, Wilmington, Antioch, Wilberforce, Findlay and Defiance, Coach Borst announces.

Awarding of letters to members of the Buccaneer basketball squad in recognition of their services during the past season, will be made soon, according to Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson, Xenia Central High School mentor. "Pinky" has not disclosed how many players will receive letters.

Whereas the three R's familiar to school children are reading, 'rithmetic and 'rithmetic, the three R's of life are recreation, remembrance and religion, according to Dr. John Bamford, Springfield, a widely travelled minister, who was the principal speaker at the March meeting of the Presbyterian men of the First Presbyterian Church Thursday night.

Dr. Bamford, a native of Ireland, introduced his talk with humorous observations on life in general.

The development of a well proportioned life by play, laughter and fun was stressed under the heading of recreation while remembrance was defined as "the memory of the gallery of life from which we expect to extract so much future pleasure." "Memory," he said, "is that God-given gift which enables us to have roses in December and to re-enjoy past scenes."

By religion Dr. Bamford declared he did not refer to creeds but to enjoyment of life through the medium of the church and asserted that man's need of religion is conceived in terms of life.

Attorney Marcus McCallister, as chairman of the committee in charge, presided and introduced the speaker. Other members of the committee were Robert Haws, George Perrill, Erskine Winter and L. P. Clark.

Several groups of selections were sung by the Masonic Quartet. The meeting was particularly well attended and a generous roast beef dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

The meeting Thursday night was the third and last of the series of regular meetings and it was decided at a business session, presided over by Dr. Paul D. Espey, chairman, to leave future meetings in the hands of the executive committee.

STYLE SHOW BRINGS CROWDS TO THEATER THURSDAY EVENING

The grace and charm of the 1930 Spring styles for women were delightfully presented in a Style Show by Kennedy's store at the Bijou Theater Thursday evening preceding the regular movie.

The theater was crowded to the doors with interested spectators who were enthusiastic in their reception of the lovely new fashions as worn by attractive models.

Styles for street, afternoon, sports and evening wear showed the new feminine daintiness, and the softly rounded lines of the new silhouette that will be the outstanding feature of the spring and summer mode. The skirt lengths of the costumes for the different occasions, the natural waist lines, the jaunty capes and the graceful drapings of the dressy frocks were features of especial interest to the feminine part of the audience.

During the presentation of the styles Miss Eleanor McDonnell sang "Long, Long Ago," "The Gingham Girl," "Ain't She Sweet," "Sweethearts on Parade," and closed with "Good Night," when the models appeared in smart lounging and pajama suits. Miss Juanita Rankin, at the organ, gave several special numbers and served as accompanist for Miss McDonnell.

Preceding the 1930 style show, as a special courtesy to the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club which is cooperating with the national organization in the observance of Business and Professional Women's Club Week, a few minutes was devoted to the showing of women's styles since the time the first woman entered business in this city.

Misses Virginia Fletcher, Emma Lyons, Margaret Spellman and Gienna Dinwiddie were amusingly quaint old costumes that presented a sharp contrast to the modern ones shown immediately afterward.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, president of the local club, gave a short talk explaining the object of the old time presentation, and thanking Mr. Kennedy for the courtesy to the organization.

The entire program will be repeated at the Friday evening show with some additional costumes in the old time show.

The Bucks took undisputed possession of second place in the Recreation League, eight full games behind the flying Greene County Lumber Co. team, by making a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Lang Chevrolet Co. Thursday night. Bice totaled 617 for the Bucks, followed by Shney with 602, while Bales led Langs with 594.

In a City League match the same evening the league-leading Downtown Country Club quintet stretched its lead to ten full games by winning three games in a row from the second-place Fuller and Sons team. Purdom had a series of 558 for the winners and F. Cain rolled a three-game total of 603 for Fullers. Box scores:

MRS. BESSIE CLARK DIES IN JAMESTOWN

Mrs. Bessie Clark, 72, widow of G. W. Clark, former mayor of Jamestown, died Thursday morning at 10:40 at her home in Jamestown.

She had been in ill health for several weeks and suffered a complete paralytic stroke at noon, Wednesday. She never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Clark was a woman dearly beloved by a large circle of friends and was known as "Aunt Bess" to almost the entire community.

She was a native of Maysville, Ky., but had lived in Jamestown for many years. She was born April 26, 1857, the daughter of John and Sally Brown. Two sons by a former marriage preceded her in death and she is survived by one son, Dr. J. H. Clark of Cleveland. She was a great aunt of Mrs. G. H. Eckler of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Clemans Ave., Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Hubert Snyder, of the Church of Christ, will have charge. Burial will be made in Jamestown.

INSPECT COMPANY

Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, was given a "satisfactory" rating by Captain A. W. Meizen, regular army officer, assigned to headquarters at Frankfort, Ind., who conducted the annual inspection of the local guard unit last week at the company armory on E. Main St., according to Captain O. H. Cornwell, commanding officer.

IN BUSINESS HERE TWENTY YEARS

MISS KATHERINE OSTERLY

In point of the number of years she has conducted her own business establishment Miss Katherine Osterly, of the Osterly Millinery Store, is Xenia's dean of woman business proprietors. For more than twenty years Miss Osterly has been in business for herself in her present location on Green Street where she succeeded F. A. Day.

Miss Osterly began her business career as soon as she had finished school and took a position in the millinery store of Mrs. James Cooper. Later she accepted a position with the Jobe Bros. store as head of the millinery department, and a few years later bought the business which she now conducts.

Her sister, Miss Mary Osterly, who conducts a dressmaking establishment in connection with the store, has also been engaged in dressmaking ever since her school days.

Both are members of the Dayton branch of the Costume Art Association and attend the meetings in Dayton each month.

Visitors to the Cleveland Flower Show

MARCH 29 — APRIL 5

will find Hotel Cleveland able and anxious to make their trip more pleasant. There are all the services and luxuries you would expect of the most modern hotel in the city. Then there is the convenience to the Flower Show, only two blocks away; the direct passageway to Cleveland's new Union Passenger Station; the theatre and concert ticket services offered by the Hotel; the Orchestra, playing noon and evening, that you have probably heard over the radio. Then, too, a guest at Hotel Cleveland really sees and comes to know Cleveland, for he or she is surrounded by the social and business leaders of the city who lunch and dine here every day. Clevelanders, you know, prefer the Cleveland, and so will you, we promise, once you've been a guest here.

POWER LINE BROKEN WHEN AUTO STRIKES POLE EARLY FRIDAY

About seventy-five rural consumers in the vicinity of Alpha and Trebels were without lights for from three to four and a half hours early Friday morning all because an automobile skidded off the Dayton Pike a quarter of a mile west of Trebels and landed in a ditch.

The machine, a Chevrolet coach which bore a New York license, number 7B6112, caught fire and was destroyed after crashing into a Dayton Power and Light Co. pole. The pole, which had a transformer on it, was broken off near the base and the wires coming in contact with one another knocked out a fuse at Zimmerman, plunging residences at Alpha and Trebels into darkness.

The accident is believed to have occurred about 4 a. m. but when Deputy Sheriff George Surgen, living at Alpha, was notified and conducted an investigation, the occupants of the car had disappeared.

There were no eye-witnesses of the accident and the deputy sheriff was unable to learn the identity of the driver or whether he had escaped injury when the car upset and caught fire.

The machine was being driven toward Dayton and was almost entirely consumed by the flames. It is believed a soft shoulder caused the car to skid on a turn in the road and upset.

Consumers of the Dayton Power and Light Co. at Alpha were without electricity from 4 to 7:30 o'clock and lights were restored to consumers at Trebels about 8:30 when the company completed repairs.

WILL TEST ENGLISH RACING MACHINE

DAYTONA BEACH, March 14.—The Sunbeam "Silver Bullet" with which Kaye Don, English speed driver, hopes to shatter the world's record for automobiles, will be officially christened and tested out over the beach course here today.

It was doubtful if the Englishman will attain any near record speed in the trials today and he said he planned merely to run the "Silver Bullet" over the nine-mile course at a moderate speed. He hopes to attain a speed later of 248 miles per hour.

DISTRICT OFFICER OF KIWANIS

Wilson W. Galloway, Cedarville, manager of the Hagar Strawboard and Paper Co., and a member of the Xenia Kiwanis Club has actively assumed his duties as Lieutenant governor of the Ohio Kiwanis District, to which he was recently elected. He succeeded T. H. Zell, Xenia, who was elected lieutenant governor last fall at the district convention in Marietta and who resigned recently.

Mr. Galloway has begun his visits to the clubs of the second division of the Ohio District, over which he presides. This division is composed of clubs in Bellefontaine, Covington, Dayton, Greenville, Sidney, Springfield, Troy, Urbana and Xenia. He recently presided over a meeting of officers of these clubs in Dayton, at which policies for the year were discussed.

The Ohio Kiwanis District is composed of 128 clubs. J. Guy O'Donnell of Covington, is district governor.

IF SPRING COMES EARLY

YOUR WISHING for spring may bring it early—and then again it may not. But there's nothing like being forehanded! Especially in the matter of clothes, it is well to be prepared for an early arrival of the next season. And then, of course, it's good for the disposition to get into a frock that is the color of spring—and to buy, early, the coat or suit that looks so good!

AN ENSEMBLE of tweed is a very good early buy. Especially smart with a fur neckpiece. Mixed shades of green, tan and blues. Priced $12.75 to $39.50.

A PRINT is especially right when its pattern is small and its background dark. A gored skirt and high belt help too, of course. $14.75.

CAPES count for something in the spring picture. And if you like a tweed that is feminine and casual, too, this is your coat. $25.

CANTON crepe continues smart. A frock of the material with short sleeves comes in two greens and in the excellent henna. Priced at $25.

TAILORED suits have a little more of the feminine in them this year. A jacket may be cut-away and a skirt circular as in this one $25-$35.

A BLACK coat of soft woolen with satin crepe lining and trimmed with French Lapin is quite all right. Priced at $49.50.

Very smart for Business — one, two and three piece knitted garments. $12.75-$19.75.

SHAGIN APPOINTED REGULAR ON POLICE DEPARTMENT HERE

PETER SHAGIN

Formal appointment of Peter Shagin as a regular patrolman on the Xenia Police Department assigned to duties as a traffic officer was announced Friday by City Manager Melville C. Smith, conforming in part with provisions of an ordinance passed by City Commission, effective March 1, providing for a re-organization of the police force.

Shagin has served as motorcycle policeman for the last six years but was not under civil service and under terms of the recent ordinance was required to take a civil service examination to be eligible for appointment as a regular patrolman assigned to traffic duties.

The traffic officer successfully passed the examination and was placed on the eligibility list of six successful applicants certified to the city manager.

As the re-organization ordinance created the position of day desk man and provided for increasing the personnel of the police force to eight men, an addition of one, Manager Smith still has under consideration appointment of a new regular patrolman.

The new appointee is expected to be designated as chief of police, succeeding Michael E. Graham, who will voluntarily retire to day desk duties and at the first of next year will retire from the force, being the first member of the department of take advantage of the recently created police pension and relief fund which will be available in 1931.

FALL PROVES FATAL

CHICAGO, March 14.—Frank D. Ketcham, 65, a widower, was killed today when he fell or jumped from the window of his room on the eleventh floor of a Michigan Avenue hotel here.

His body, clad in a sweater, shirt, trousers and socks, was found in the street by a taxicab driver.

KONJOLA ENDS FOUR YEARS OF SEVERE ILLNESS

Youngstown Man Praises Modern Medicine—Says It Brought Relief After Others Failed

"Stomach trouble and rheumatism bothered me terribly for four years," said Mr. John Thomas, 47 Fleming St., Youngstown. "Nothing I ate agreed with me and great quantities of gas formed in my stomach after every meal. Shortness of breath and severe heart palpitation invariably followed these gas accumulations. Rheumatism attacked me, principally in my right leg. The pains were so severe that walking was always difficult.

"I was hardly prepared for the relief Konjola brought me. In a short time my health worries were over entirely. Today I do not suffer from gas pains and bloating. The shortness of breath and heart palpitations are a thing of the past. Beat of all the trifling pains from rheumatism have left me with the rest of my ailments and I get about more easily than I have in a long time. My entire system has been built up by this master medicine, Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Galt's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

ZIMMERMAN

Mrs. R. E. Ferguson was a gracious hostess to the Community Club which met at her home Wednesday afternoon on March 5. Mrs. Crawford Coy, president, presided at the business session. Plans were made for an all-day quilting to be held at the home of Mrs. Lester Lehman Wednesday, March 12 to quilt the quilt piece for the club by Mrs. Alvah Stine.

A delicious salad course was served by the hostess. Present were Mrs. Coy, Mrs. George Williamson, Mrs. F. J. Barron, Miss Julia Lantz, Mrs. Alvah Stine, Mrs. R. Bert Bear, Vera and Marilyn Bear, Mrs. Henry Stewart, Mrs. Homer Flatter, Miss Lida Ferguson, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Lehman.

An election of officers was held. All of the old officers were re-elected by acclamation except the treasurer, Mrs. George Williamson, who moves to Eastwood Park, April 1st. Mrs. Stewart was elected treasurer. Club members expressed themselves as deeply regretful at losing such a splendid member, Mrs. Williamson having been a very capable and active worker in the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson have sold their property at Shoup's Station to Mr. and Mrs. Harbine Hagelbach and will live temporarily in the other side of the double house occupied by their son Herman Williamson and wife.

The meeting on Friday afternoon at the church here for the women of Unit 2 in the World's Day of Prayer program was well attended considering the inclement weather. Mrs. Roy Coy, president of the Mt. Zion missionary society presided, this society having taken the initiative in arranging the meeting.

Letters from Rev. Ward Hartman, missionary in China were read by Mrs. Crawford Coy and Mrs. Frank Greene. Miss Josephine Ankeney read an interesting paper written by Miss Helen Ankeney who was absent on account of illness, giving her impressions of the pagant, the Church of Tyumphant, presented in Columbus at the Pentecostal celebration.

Miss Elizabeth Ankeney had charge of the singing and sang a solo with Miss Rachel Ankeney as accompanist. Mrs. Joe Coy was organist. Present were, Mrs. Arthur Leaming, Misses Josephine, Elizabeth and Rachel Ankeney, Mrs. C. Coy, Mrs. R. Coy, Mrs. Joe Coy, Mrs. George Ferguson, Mrs. Barron, Miss Julia Lantz, Mrs. R. Bear, Marilyn Bear, Mrs. I. M. Coy, Mrs. B. F. Smart, Mrs. Henry Stewart, Mrs. Marion Bailey, Mrs. Sam Moore, Mrs. Crawford Smith, Misses Lizzie and Mary Haverstick, Misses Mary and Elizabeth Brill, Mrs. George Coy, Mrs. Greene Mrs. Leona Young, Mrs. George D. Durnbaugh and baby, Mrs. Johnson Engle, Mrs. Paul Engle, Mrs. Anell Heath, Mrs. Jennie Costenboder.

Clifford Williamson was a recent visitor at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. R. Snyder in Columbus.

The usual spring moving is in progress. Walter Fleming and family have moved to the Benauer farm near New Germany; Loren Wagner and family to Heathstone Plat, the Frump family to New Vienna, Jacob Taylor and family, (colored) to Dayton.

Mrs. Harold Durnbaugh has had a relapse and is still quite sick at her home on the Xenia Pike.

Mrs. Frank Dalhammer is able to be out after a tedious siege of "flu."

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dalhammer have taken charge of a restaurant at Tippecanoe.

Mrs. George D. Durnbaugh and baby spent Wednesday with her sister-in-law, Mrs. McKinley Durnbaugh.

A rising vote of appreciation for his faithful and splendid services as pastor was tendered, Rev. Eidemiller following a report of Rev.

CHASSIS PROTECTION, CHASSIS PERFORMANCE, that Nash alone Provides

NASH engineering has built an amazing amount of extra value and extra satisfaction into the 1930 Nash "400's." You will not find the oil cushioned chassis in any other car at the Nash price. Eventually, perhaps, but not now. And Nash offers you this superior chassis protection in both the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six. All Nash models, even the lowest priced, are equipped with an efficient, modern system of centralized chassis lubrication which eliminates the bother and uncertainty of hand greasing. In addition the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six have permanently lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers. This means chassis bearings, including spring shackle bolts and springs, constantly bathed in oil. No squeaks, creaks or rust—longer life! And you will find the "400" price no higher than that of other cars without this valuable safeguard.

THE VALUE OF QUIETNESS

Quietness is necessary for physical health; the common advice given by physicians is rest; quietness is necessary for the best thought life; one who will think clearly must retire from the busy, noisy world.

Quietness is essential to prayer and worship to develop soul life. When the inner life is in harmony with God, there is assured quietness and peace. Truth is quiet; error is noisy; love is quiet, anger is violent; wisdom is quiet, folly is clamorous; strength is quiet, weakness blusters; courage is calm, cowardice is boisterous; heaven is quiet, hell is distracting.

"The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him." Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY? — D. Carl Yoder.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Christian ministry includes teaching, preaching and healing ministries. The emphasis seen in the example of Jesus was on teaching.

V. 21. "And Jesus went out thence, and withdrew into parts of Tyre and Sidon." Jesus withdrew from the busy scenes because he needed rest because of the hostility of the Pharisees and because he wanted times for special instruction to his disciples. His influence was so mighty that when he sought seclusion and retirement he was found out. When Jesus took a vacation, he took his religion with him.

V. 22. "And behold, a Canaanish woman came out from these borders and cried saying, 'Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a demon.' The demons of sin are real and terrible; this mother looked upon her daughter's sin as her sin and therefore cried, 'Have mercy upon me.' She was a praying mother, interceding for one who possibly could not or would not pray. No one knows what might be wrought by real praying.

V. 23. "And he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him saying, send her away; for she crieth after us." The disciples did not want to be bothered by this despoiled pagan woman and likely felt that if Jesus would grant her request, immediately she would go and they could be alone again.

—By George C. Degan.

Sunday Bible School at 9:30 a. m. Mr. Carl Leach, Supt.

Sermon by pastor at 10:45 a. m. Subject: "The Gospel in Leviticus." N. Y. P. S. at 6:30 p. m. Evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m. Theme: "God's Derivative Laughter." The book of Revelation is being studied at our Wednesday evening prayer meeting beginning at 7:30 p. m.

V. 24. "But he answered and said I was not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Here is a fact—Jesus planned to give the Jews the first chance, however, he also taught that in due time the

V. 25. "But she came and worshipped him, saying, Lord help me." She had been twice turned aside by Jesus, once by his silence and again by his denial of interest in her, yet her faith remained firm and her perseverance was invincible. If prayer is a spiritual desire in the line of his promises, we ought to refuse denial and keep on knocking. No one can succeed with God who fails to worship him.

V. 26. "And he answered and said, it is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs." Christ here used a proverbial saying softening the term "dog" to mean a little dog. But the woman was not offended, not ready to find fault with Jesus.

V. 27. "But she said, yea lord; for even the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from the master's table." The woman cleverly argues that the little dogs should be fed from the crumbs that fall from the table.

V. 28. "Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith; be it done unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was healed from that hour." There are three good reasons why Jesus postponed answering her prayer: (1) To test the strength of her faith, (2) to teach her the lesson that persistence and importunity in prayer will finally meet with reward, (3) to teach the disciples that greater faith was often to be found among the heathen than in Israel. Her faith is proved great for her daughter was healed that very hour. When Christ speaks it is done.

V. 29, 30. "And Jesus departed thence and went up into a mountain and there came unto him great multitudes, having with them the lame, blind, dumb, maimed and many others and they cast down at his feet and he healed them." Here is a missionary program in the interests of home missions, the preceding verses of the lesson presented a foreign missionary program—both the same.

V. 31. "Inasmuch that the multitude wondered when they saw the dumb speaking, the maimed whole and the lame walking and the blind seeing and they glorified the God of Israel." Jesus and his work is the wonder of wonders. All that is needed is to give him a chance.

There was a reason back of the difficult task of exploring and civilizing of Africa by David Livingstone. Few boys had a harder time to secure an education than he. His parents were so very poor that he was taken out of school when ten years of age and employed in a cotton factory, working from six a. m. until 8 p. m.

He was granted permission to attend an evening school and would pour over his books until midnight, his mother often snatching his candle away from him in order to get him to bed.

David was hungry for knowledge, he wanted to know all he could about this big world and the people that lived in it; he would place books near his work so that when he had a spare moment or as he passed by the book, he could get a sentence which he would think over until he could get the next one.

He became proficient in the classics. He devoured all the books of science and travel he could acquire. He studied practical geology and botany, roaming for miles to get specimens. When David Livingstone became a Christian, he resolved to become a missionary and

The Theater

George Bernard Shaw's play, "The Apple Cart," imported by the Theater Guild, gives the Irish humorist an opportunity to rattle his box of epigrams on the New York stage. The play is based on political philosophy and concerns King Magnus, a future ruler of Britain, who is polished and most intelligent. The cabinet wishes to further amputate the powers of the monarch and the king realizes he is only a buffer between the country and the forces of democracy.

He is clever, however, and in informing his cabinet he will abdicate, which secretly pleases them, he finishes by telling them he will enter Parliament as the leader of a new party and will become Prime Minister. The cabinet members decide quickly that it is better to have a king than an intelligent man in Parliament.

In the course of the play, the author takes a few Shavian swipes at America. He declares America is only an immigrant trying to be a Pilgrim Father. He also has the United States about to rejoin the British Empire. Everybody knows Americans will join anything if the dues are not too high.

Harry D'Arrast, the director, who, as reported in this column, was succeeded by George Fitzmaurice as director of "Raffles," is going to direct Gloria Swanson's next talkie, "What a Widow".

Allen Dawn had the job originally, but has deserted the Swanson megaphone stuff, for reasons of that and that. Thus D'Arrast, who stepped out of one job, picks up another. All sets for "What a Widow" have been built and the story is being tabloided so that it can be taken in two days. The developed film is run in the projection room and changes made, if necessary, in story or mechanics. It is a new shooting experiment. Production starts soon.

Fitzmaurice figured out a scheme to make Miss Skipworth groan at the proper moment while she is reclining in one scene of "Raffles," and thus frighten Ronald Colman who is about to crack a safe. Fitzmaurice decided that at the proper moment he would nudge Miss Skip-

CHAPTER LIX

How Maxwell's supposed victims had escaped the deaths he had planned and believed to have been executed; how they all happened to be here at this particular time; who had betrayed—tipped off his hiding place—they were matters to be considered later. It was the present moment, the situation he faced right then and there that Maxwell had to meet and wrestle with. That this was his line of thought was manifest by the first words he uttered, his deft, it might be called.

"What's the meaning of this unwarrantable attack, sir?" he blustered in his best style as he leveled a cold, fishy eye on the sergeant. "What do you mean, sir, breaking into my house this way and shooting at me without reason of any sort? Even if you are an officer that gives you no—"

"Aw, shut up, you four-flusher!" broke in Sergeant Kelly, disgustedly, his personal knowledge of the spouting Maxwell's crime against a defenseless woman enough in itself to make him hate the man without the unquestionable evidence of guilt on many other counts. "I'll tell ye what the meaning is of this attack, as ye call it! It means that you are under arrest, on three different charges, namely: Conspiracy to murder; kidnapping and holding a man and a woman for six weeks in a filthy, cold cellar and almost starving 'em to death, and the embezzlement of fourteen million dollars. By the time you've answered to those charges and paid the penalties you'll be a pretty old bird, my hearty!"

The pronouncement of these charges and the potential meaning—the swift mental vision of the penitentiary, came as a distinct jolt to the ego and self-confidence of Herbert Maxwell. This was clearly evidenced by the startled look that spread over the ordinarily mask-like countenance. It was further evidenced by his words and tone as he turned and addressed Pat, seeming to think, by some peculiar reasoning of his own, that she might be more amenable than others to his line of oratory.

"You won't make anything prosecuting me, Patricia," he said in his old suave manner of speaking. "Where, on the other hand," he went on hurriedly, "you could get back—well, half, we'll say—of your brother's fortune that you gave to me! Prosecute me and I stay mum on the location of those securities!"

"I never gave those securities to you, Herbert Maxwell!" cried Pat, her voice shaking with anger at the nasty implication. "You know you lie when you say it! I agreed to accept your substitute for Jimmy upon your promise to turn my brother over to me—to save him from being murdered by you. You had no intention of keeping your promise and it was only by the grace and kindness of God that he was taken out of your murderous clutches and given back! So far as the securities are concerned, Mr. Maxwell, they will be back in the Blair deposit box within a very short time. Jean Bouchard is ready and glad any day to take the witness stand and tell the truth about you and your vile schemes. And you are not going to wiggle out of paying for the crime of that bombing outrage, Herbert Maxwell!"

"You can't prove in a thousand years that I had anything to do with the crimes you mention!" sputtered Maxwell, almost beside himself in his impotent rage, his eyes gleaming vindictively. "And furthermore," he continued with a sneer, "you'll never—"

He stopped, a swift, startled look leaping into his eyes, Madame Leclerc had stepped around the small table to within three feet of where he sat half facing her. He stared fixedly at her, Her black, glaring eyes were boring into his, a light in their smoldering depths that might have startled any man. She bent a little toward him, her right hand thrust deep in the slit pocket of the coat, Pat's seal that she was wearing.

"What about me, you treacherous dog?" she hissed. "What about the long, interminable hours I passed in a cold, filthy cellar, every hour a year of anxiety for a loved one, every week a century! What about the man who died under the guillotine knife two weeks ago in Paris for a crime you committed? You say they can't prove you guilty! That is just what I fear, Herbert Maxwell. That's why I'm giving you—THIS!"

With the last word she jerked her right hand from the slit pocket in the coat. It was wound around with a black silk scarf completely concealing the hand and what it held. There was the dull thud of a muffled report, followed by a cry of anguish. Herbert Maxwell, clutching frantically at his breast, tried to rise, sank back and tried again. Again he failed. Then suddenly he collapsed. His body swayed sideways and fell to the floor with a jar that rattled the dishes on the table. He was dead almost before Sergeant Kelly had knelt down and placed a hand over his head.

When the sergeant straightened up Madame Leclerc was standing at the side of the table on which she had placed the scarf-muffled gun. A spiral of smoke was issuing from the scarf which, as the sergeant picked it up he saw was afire. He unwound the scarf, laid the gun on the table and smothered the fire with his hands. Then he picked up the gun, glanced at its make and dropped it in his pocket. He looked steadily for a moment at Madame Leclerc. She was staring with glassy eyes at the still body on the floor. His gaze shifted to the startled, questioning faces around him.

"It was I who shot and killed Herbert Maxwell when he pulled his gun on me as we entered the room!" he stated with a sharp, distinct emphasis on the pronoun, and he looked at each one in turn of the six other witnesses to the tragedy just enacted. There was no mistaking the meaning of that look. Everyone understood it.

"If ever a man deserved a killing it was that one!" proclaimed the sergeant, pointing dramatically at the body on the floor. "He got just what was coming to him. So remember, everyone of you, I shot him when he pulled his gun on me!"

As his significance of his words dawned upon her, Madame Leclerc, who seemed the least excited of anyone in the room, made a gesture of remonstrance.

"But, sergeant," she said, protesting, "I really can't allow you to assume responsibility for what I've done. I am not insane. I did not shoot that dog—" she pointed scornfully at the dead man on the floor, "in any fit of mad passion! It was premeditated, deliberate! I swore I would kill him if I ever escaped from that hell-hole in which he had thrown me—I took that oath more than a month ago! Now I have kept my oath and I am glad, glad! I am perfectly willing to pay the penalty! And I shall never plead insanity!"

Sergeant Kelly took a step toward her, his hand raised as if bidding her to pause—to listen to reason.

"Madame," he said, his tone and manner almost commanding. "It was I who killed Herbert Maxwell—as I've just stated—when he pulled his gun. Neither you nor the others had anything to do with it! Please remember that! A policeman has a right to protect himself in the performance of his duty! I saw that place where this man put you and kept you for six long weeks—yes, you and the young man. I know all the circumstances. Instead of blaming you for the killing of this Maxwell I'd say you did a commendable job!"

"But the law is—the law! While you would, no doubt, be acquitted by a jury, there's no sense in going to all that bother. So just forget it all and let me handle it in my own way! It's the best, believe me, Madame. Remember now—mum's the word!"
